12. (C) The Ambassador thanked the Minister for the MOI's May 20 issuance of birth certificates to Baha'is with a dash in the religion field. She asked for the issuance of identity cards for Baha'is with a dash in the religion field (ref B). Ambassador raised the case of Coptic priest, convicted and sentenced to a five-year prison term in October 2008 for performing the wedding of a Christian convert from Islam who allegedly used a forged identity card to establish her Christian identity (ref E). Ambassador asked whether the GOE could release Coptic priest on bail while he files an appeal. Adly said he would look into the case.

Clemency for Bloggers

13. (C) The Ambassador urged clemency for three bloggers currently in jail: Karim Amer, convicted and sentenced to a four-year prison term in December 2007 for insulting Islam and President Mubarak; Musad Abu Fagr, jailed in 2007 following his blog posts about the difficulties of the Sinai Bedouin; and Hany Nazir, jailed in October 2008 following blogging about issues sensitive to Islam and Christianity (ref C). The Minister responded that Abu Fagr supported criminal activities related to Palestinians entering Egypt. The Ambassador urged that their detentions be reviewed since there did not appear to be any prosecution underway.

Registering U.S. NGOs
-----

14. (C) The Ambassador urged the Minister to agree to register three U.S. NGOs operating in Egypt: the National Democratic Institute, the International Republican Institute, and the International Federation for Electoral Systems. She noted that registration of these NGOs would be favorably received in Washington. Minister Adly replied that these organizations began working in Egypt before they were registered, and have supported the political opposition. He added that although the GOE issues these NGOs visas, "this doesn't mean they can be legally registered." The Ambassador pushed back, saying that these NGOs are very respectful of local law, and have worked closely with GOE entities such as the Supreme Election Commission.

Police Training and Counterterrorism
-----

15. (C) The Ambassador requested MOI agreement to continuing USG-funded police training, and noted that the embassy had submitted a diplomatic note to the MFA on the subject (ref A). Adly said he would look into the issue. The Ambassador asked about press reports of the May 15 arrests of Muslim Brotherhood (MB) officials for money laundering. Adly said the MB has received foreign funds. He noted that the GOE would announce on May 22 the arrests of additional individuals involved in the February 22 Khan Al-Khalili bombing in Cairo (ref D). Adly said the group had received funds from France.

Consular Case and Diplomatic License Plates
-----

16. (C) The Ambassador requested MOI assistance to locate 15 year-old Amcit Sara El-Gohary, abducted by her father in Egypt in 1997, so her mother can see her. She noted that U.S. television is now focused on the story. The mother is no longer seeking to have custody -- she simply wants to see her child. Adly said the MOI "will do our best." The Ambassador asked for MOI assistance in providing new diplomatic license plates for embassy employees at a location near the embassy. Adly said he would try to facilitate such an arrangement.
